This event will present recent Global Initiative research that analyses the political economy of Libya's trafficking industry. It presents the state of affairs on the ground in Libya's coastal smuggling hubs as well as on its Southern borders.

By mapping the actors involved, their inter-connections and the flow of smuggling profits, the presentation will highlight the important implications that the smuggling industry will have, not only for Libya's transition, but also for long term stability and human security across the Sahel Maghreb.
